STATEMENT REGARDING DAMAGE TO THE HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS OF 25X1A9a

My household effects were received in a battered and shattered condition. The heavy damage resulted from negligent and careless packing which is nearly indescribable. Fragile items were thrown loosely into boxes with no packing whatsoever. In one such box a Toastmaster toaster was smashed and a lomm movie projector was broken into several pieces. In another box two children's tricycles were thrown in on top of two new mahogany lamp tables. As a result the tables were removed from the box in splinters.

There was absolutely no attempt made to prevent furniture from being jarred to pieces, gouged, and splintered. A mahogany desk was taken from an undamaged crate in some thirty-five pieces. A radio-phonograph console was cracked in the center and shattered on the corners. A dining room table had all four legs broken off. Book-cases were gouged and broken apart. A mahogany bed looked as though it had been hacked with an axe. Chests of drawers were packed in a manner which permitted the drawers to move back and forth, resulting in the fronts of the drawers being knocked off. A relatively heavy typewriter was placed on the shelf of a large bookcase with lattice work sides, and as a result the typewriter slid back and forth shattering the sides of the bookcase and ruining the case of the typewriter.

Overstuffed furniture arrived will all the legs broken. A new Philco refrigerator had been removed from the factory crate and packed in an unstable box which permitted the front and sides to the refrigerator to be curshed. Phonograph records were stacked in a box witout protective packing; dozens of them were broken.

Item, which ordinarily are not considered fragile, were ruined by nails being driven into the contents. Thus several encyclopedias had nails driven through them and a mattress was ripped.

Most of the damage can never be repaired. Item which have been repaired have nothing near their former appearance or value, while indirect expense resulting from the damage have not been taken into consideration.
